unrelated entity, a store called Body Source in Lindenhurst, New York (the "January 15, 2004 Letter").

ANSWER: Australian Gold denies that Body Source is "an unrelated entity" to the Plaintiff, as "Body Source" is used by Plaintiff on the www.thesupplenet.com website. Australian Gold admits that the January 15, 2004 letter to Body Source, attached to the Complaint as Exhibit A, is a true and correct copy of the letter sent by its attorneys on that date. ANSWER: The January 15, 2004 letter is a document that speaks for itself. Australian Gold denies any allegations contained in paragraph 24 of the Complaint contrary to what is stated in that document.

25. After a number of other exchanges, plaintiff responded substantively, through counsel, in a letter dated January 27, 2004, explaining that all plaintiff's purchases of Australian Gold Products were made from retailers, not distributors; requesting the legal authority on which defendant's claims of tortious interference were based; and rebutting the claim of trademark infringement. A copy of the January 27, 2004 letter is attached hereto as Exhibit B.

ANSWER: Australian Gold admits that the January 27, 2004 letter, attached to the Complaint as Exhibit B, is a true and correct copy of the letter received by Australian Gold's counsel. This letter is a document that speaks for itself and Australian Gold denies any allegations contained in paragraph 25 of the Complaint contrary to what is stated in that document.

26. Defendant responded through counsel by letter dated January 28, 2004, demanding that plaintiff prove that its source of Australian Gold Products was retailers by providing "the names of all retail locations from which such purchases have been made (the "January 28, 2004 letter"). Australian Gold admits that the $5.23 million judgment was based upon violations of the Lanham Act, including trademark infringement and false advertising and tortious interference with the Distributorship Agreements.

28. The next day, plaintiff's counsel replied by letter (the "January 29, 2004 letter"), noting that the supply information demanded by defendant was proprietary and confidential, and that defendant had neither a legal basis to demand the information nor a factual basis on which to claim plaintiff was lying. A copy of the January 29, 2004 letter is attached hereto as Exhibit D.

ANSWER: Australian Gold admits that the January 29, 2004 letter, attached to the Complaint as Exhibit D, is a true and correct copy of a letter it received from Plaintiff's counsel. Australian Gold denies all allegations contrary to what is stated in that document.

29. The January 29, 2004 letter also noted that the Oklahoma judgment involved purchases from a distributor, not retailers, and contained virtually no information that would permit plaintiff to evaluate the activities that gave rise to the liability imposed in that matter to compare them to its own.

ANSWER: The January 29, 2004 letter is a document that speaks for itself. Australian Gold denies all allegations contrary to what is stated in the document.

30. There was no further correspondence between the parties until February 22, 2005, when defendant — now under new ownership — sent a letter to plaintiff, over the signature of its chief executive officer, Leslie Hartlieb, reiterating the earlier charges and threatening litigation unless plaintiff complied with defendant's demands. A copy of the February 22, 2005 letter is attached hereto as Exhibit E.

what is stated in that document. Australian Gold also denies that it is "under new ownership" as ETS, Inc. and Australian Gold, at all relevant times, have been owned by the same shareholders.

31. Fearing that defendant would seek to cripple competition from plaintiff by tying it up in litigation or regularly threatening to do so, plaintiff brought this action on this date.

THE PARTIES

5. Australian Gold owns the copyrights to all pictures, artwork and commentary of the Products displayed on the Websites.

6. Upon information and belief, S & L Vitamins does business on the internet at www.thesupplenet.com (and www.BodySourceOnline.com, which merely redirects web browsers to www.thesupplenet.com) and at two (2) retail locations in and around Lindenhurst and Miller Place, New York under the name Body Source.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

10. This action includes claims for trademark infringement and unfair competition under the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. §§1114, 1125(a), tortious interference with contract and prospective economic advantage, state law claims for trademark infringement, unfair and deceptive business practices and conspiracy. This Court has original jurisdiction based on federal question jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1331 and diversity of citizenship pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1332(a). The Court has jurisdiction over the state law claims pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1367.

11. Australian Gold is a citizen of the State of Indiana for purposes of diversity as it is incorporated in the State of Indiana and its principal place of business is in the State of Indiana. S & L Vitamins is a New York corporation with its principal place of business located in New York. Further, the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest and costs, exceeds $75,000.

AUSTRALIAN GOLD'S DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM

12. Australian Gold distributes the Products through independent distributors for resale to tanning salons and hair care salons that offer on-premises tanning and instruction on the use of the Products. Sales to beauty supply stores, flea markets, internet sellers and other similar outlets are strictly prohibited. Distributors are prohibited from selling the Products to anyone outside of the distribution channel, including to those persons or entities that sell the Products on the internet.

13. Australian Gold implemented its current distribution strategy to (1) ensure that the end users of the Products received proper instruction and training on the use of the Products; (2) ensure the end user received face-to-face consultation with a trained salesperson so that the consumer purchased the correct Product based upon that person's skin type and tanning objectives; (3) ensure that the Products purchased and used by the consumer are used in a safe and proper manner since the Products are designed to achieve different results and not all Products are suited for all consumers; (4) protect the reputation and perception of the Products as premium products available only in tanning salons; and (5) allow for the opportunity to cross-sell other Products to the consumers, among other things.

14. Australian Gold has expended a substantial amount of time and effort to train its distributors and the tanning salons across the country, instructing them on the benefits of the Products and their intended use. On a yearly basis, it is not uncommon for Australian Gold to train over 20,000 individuals on the proper use and sale of the Products.

15. Australian Gold's current distribution system has increased and enhanced Australian Gold's sales and reputation in the marketplace. Australian Gold's sales have steadily increased over the years as it has streamlined its distributors and enforced its distribution system limiting sales to tanning salons.

16. To ensure that its distribution system is properly maintained, Australian Gold requires all of its authorized distributors to enter into agreements that specifically define to whom the Products may be sold.

17. Prior to January 1, 2005, Australian Gold distributed the Products through ETS, Inc., a separate company with common ownership. ETS entered into distributorship agreements with all of its distributors (hereafter "Distributorship Agreements"). Australian Gold now contracts directly with its distributors. A true and correct copy of the standard Distributorship Agreement (without exhibits) that all authorized distributors are required to sign is attached hereto as Exhibit B.

18. As of January 1, 2005, all rights and obligations in the Distributorship Agreements have been assigned by ETS to Australian Gold, who now acts as the manufacturer and distributor of the Products.

19. Specifically, the Distributorship Agreements provide that Distributors may market, distribute and sell Products only to legitimate tanning salons and hair care salons that offer indoor tanning as an on-premises service and instruction on the use of the Products.

(Distributorship Agreement, Art. 1.1(D) and (E)). The Distributorship Agreements prohibit the sale of Products to a reseller, like the Defendant, who intends to re-sell the Products to the general public at large on the internet. (Distributorship Agreement, Art. 1.1(D) and (E)).

20. The Distributorship Agreements require all Distributors to assist Australian Gold "in educating Distributor's sales staff and Customers with regard to the use and benefit of the Products." (Distributorship Agreement, Art. 1.6). Distributors must also make their sales force available to Australian Gold for training and must conduct at least two (2) training sessions per year on the use and benefits of the Products to its customers. (Distributorship Agreement, Art. 1.6).

21. Australian Gold has expended substantial time and effort to preserve and protect the integrity of the distribution channels. Among other things, Australian Gold has (1) offered extensive training and instruction to each of its distributors and subdistributors and tanning salons regarding the proper channel of distribution of the Products; (2) held group and individual meetings with distributors to discuss the Distributorship Agreements and the need to sell Products only within the authorized distribution channels; (3) communicated on a daily basis with its distributors to remind them of their obligations to sell the Products within the authorized distribution channel; and (4) pursued legal action against numerous individuals and entities to enforce the restrictions regarding the distribution of Products.

22. Among other things, Australian Gold has sent cease and desist letters to persons and entities selling the Products on the internet, terminated distributors found to have sold to internet businesses and filed lawsuits against internet businesses who have interfered with its distribution system and Distributorship Agreements.

23. As a direct result of these actions, the perceived value of the Products has remained high and sales have continued to increase. The Products' reputation has been enhanced as Products that are only available to consumers in legitimate tanning salons and not in discount outlets such as flea markets, beauty stores and the internet.

S&L VITAMINS' AND SAGARIN'S USE OF THE INTERNET TO ILLEGALLY SELL PRODUCTS

24. S & L Vitamins and Sagarin operate an internet website, www.thesupplenet.com, that sells the Products. They also control another domain name, www.BodySourceOnline.com, which automatically directs itself to the www.thesupplenet.com website.

25. S & L Vitamins and Sagarin also have a "brick and mortar" business known as Body Source, advertising on its website two retail locations located at 308 E Montauk Highway, Lindenhurst, NY 11757 and 159-6 Route 25A, Miller Place, NY 11764. Ironically, in the Complaint, S & L Vitamins alleged that "Body Source" at 308 E. Montauk Highway was "an unrelated entity," but the website states that www.thesupplenet.com is "brought to you by: Body Source 308 E Montauk Hwy Lindenhurst, N.Y. 11757." (See excerpt of www.thesupplenet.com webpage, attached hereto as Exhibit C).

26. S & L Vitamin's website is hosted by Yahoo! Store, a internet service operated by the internet company Yahoo!, that provides internet based businesses with services such as webpage hosting and sales orders processing.

27. As a result of its association with Yahoo! Store, S & L Vitamins has linked its internet business to Yahoo! and its search engine capabilities. Yahoo! allows businesses to "Sponsor" certain search terms on its search engine so that a business' website will be identified at or near the top of the search result. For example, a business may "pay for placement" with respect to the search term "digital cameras." Yahoo! lists "Sponsor Results" containing websites presumably related to "digital cameras." These websites pay to be a "sponsor" and to have their business identified at the top of the search result.

28. Yahoo! boasts that websites that "pay for placement" can reach 80% of internet users with search results listed on 8 of the top U.S. search engines, including Yahoo!, MSN, AltaVista, InfoSpace, AlltheWeb and NetZero.

29. Upon information and belief, S & L Vitamins and Sagarin have paid to use Australian Gold's intellectual property, including its Marks, on Yahoo! for the express purpose of directing internet traffic to www.thesupplenet.com.

30. S & L Vitamins' website is identified in the "Sponsor Results" on Yahoo! for the search term "Australian Gold." Its website is listed near the top of the webpage under "Sponsor Results." (See webpage from Yahoo! Shopping searching for "Australian Gold," attached hereto as Exhibit D).

31. S & L Vitamins' website also is identified in the "Sponsor Results" on Yahoo! for the search term "Swedish Beauty." Its website is again listed near the top of the webpage under "Sponsor Results." (See webpage from Yahoo! Shopping searching for "Swedish Beauty," attached hereto as Exhibit E).

32. S & L Vitamins and Sagarin are using Australian Gold's intellectual property on the www.thesupplenet.com and through Yahoo! to sell tanning lotions that directly compete with Australian Gold's Products.

33. At relevant times to this lawsuit, S & L Vitamins and Sagarin used Australian Gold's intellectual property, including its Marks, in the html source code, or metatags, on the website.

34. The use of Australian Gold's Marks was to benefit and profit from the goodwill associated with Australian Gold's business and its brand names.

35. At relevant times to this lawsuit, S & L Vitamins and Sagarin advertised and displayed the Products for sale on its website using Australian Gold's artwork and Product description. Each Product was sold on the website by displaying a photograph and a description of the Product.

36. At certain times relevant to this lawsuit, upon information and belief, the photographs of the Products and the descriptions were "cut and pasted" from Australian Gold's websites without permission from Australian Gold by S&L Vitamins, Sagarin, and/or one of their employees or agents. A true and correct sample of some of the photographs and descriptions misappropriated from Australian Gold's websites is attached hereto as Exhibit F.

37. To confuse and mislead others even further, S & L Vitamins and Sagarin changed how the website displayed the Products. S & L Vitamins currently displays their own photographs of the Products and falsely draws an association and affiliation between the Products, Australian Gold and S & L Vitamins. Each photograph of the Product has the text "BodySourceOnLine.com" and the "Body Source" name and logo superimposed over the photographs, giving the false impression that S & L Vitamins is either an authorized reseller of the Products or that it is affiliated with, sponsored or endorsed by Australian Gold. True and correct copies of sample pages from the website and the artwork are attached hereto as Exhibit G.

S&L VITAMINS' AND SAGARIN'S INTERFERENCE WITH AUSTRALIAN GOLD'S DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM

38. S & L Vitamins and Sagarin have obtained the Products and have resold them on the internet.
